Pétain Opposed Continuing Resistance From N. Africa

Marshal Pétain for intelligence with the enemy and plotting against the security of France, said President Roosevelt, with his clear sight, never believed in a German victory even during the worst days.

TWO GREAT MISTAKES

"In my opinion, two great mistakes were made by Pétain—first, that I should say by the government of Vichy," M. Lefebvre said.

"The first was the belief that Germany was going to win the war and the second was that Pétain's own prestige—his seven stars as a marshal—could protect the country."

M. Lefebvre said President Roosevelt sent a telegram June 15 congratulating France on her "magnificent courage" and promising arms. On the next day, however, the president said Pétain had let his letter of resignation which he said he would submit unless an armistice were demanded.

M. Lefebvre said Gen. Georges, field commander of all French armies, informed the cabinet at Vichy that he was resigning and that the same name that the forces were willing back in Germany and that there was terrible confusion at the front.

REYNOLD RESIGNS

M. Reynold, finding himself in the minority in opposing an armistice, then resigned. M. Lefebvre said he asked Marshal Pétain to form a cabinet. Marshal Pétain, he said, instantly proposed a list of "here is my government."

M. Lefebvre said he was astonished because it was only three or four days to form a cabinet.

"The 13-day-old cabinet," he said, "the Fifth Column started a rumor campaign and that presently the Pétain cabinet announced its formation headed by Gen. Charles Huntziger to ask for German terms."

M. Lefebvre told of his last meeting with Marshal Pétain before leaving Vichy for his home in Lourdes. From there, he said the Marshal took him to a scene of "Bastille—might say of bestiality," in Istanbul.

Concluding his declaration, M. Lefebvre said he could hardly express "my profound belief in the right of France to win the war, a war of France which has risen so high to have fallen so low."

COURT ADJOURNS

The court adjourned at 5:30 p.m. and court was suspended for the day. Jules Jeanneney, former president of the French Senate, will open testimony tomorrow.

Marshal Pétain steadily refused to answer questions. He said his intention declared the first day of the trial. Judge Paul Monbeux then read into the record what he said was a telegram from Marshal Pétain to Vichy asking permission for Vichy troops to help the Germans in England.

When a juror demanded the defendant say whether or not he had sent the telegram, defense counsel said:

"The marshal has already denied he did not recognize this court and will not reply to the juror's question."

The juror persisted. "It is shameful that he should be allowed to adopt this obstructive attitude."

HEARS NOTHING

Marshal Pétain turned to his counsel and was heard to say in a low voice:

"How can I give explanations? I have heard nothing that has been going on and I don't know what it is all about."

The issue arose during the "cross-examination of former premier Edouard Daladier, whose angry testimony was punctuated by chair slamming and shouting. M. Daladier was followed to the stand by the late elected Premier, Albert Lebrun.

M. Lebrun received a succession of military defeats which preceded the French armistice.

TRAITORS GO TO VICHY

The telegram was read in response to a juror's questioning of former premier Edouard Daladier, who had testified that "all the traitors of France" fled to Vichy after the armistice and that the Pétain regime destroyed the republic. M. Daladier had declared that France was not unarmaged when the Germans arrived in 1940.

The same juror asked M. Daladier whether he knew of a telegram from Marshal Pétain to Hitler congratulating the Germans on the bloodly reality of the Canadian at Dieppe in 1942.

M. Daladier agreed during cross-examination with testimony yesterday that "certain concessions" in Africa and Russia were considered in 1940 in an effort to save France.

"The true cause of our defeat," M. Daladier said, "resulted from demoralization of the army and the old conception of the inviolability of the Ardennes—the mountainous gap between Belgium and northeast France through which the Germans pushed French lines in 1940 and pushed back the American forces last December."

He said the defeat also was due to military "incapacity" and activities of the fifth column.

"On June 25, 1940, we were told a new order was being constituted," M. Daladier said.

"It consisted of destroying republican institutions of France. The Republic was destroyed contrary to the wishes of the National Assembly which met at Vichy. The delegates to the National Assembly left the city, saving only the traitors of France, stupefied, witnessed the Vichy coup d'état."

M. Daladier was the second witness and continued the statement he started yesterday. Marshal Pétain had entered the courtroom in 1942 and was the first French Chief of State to face a court since Louis XVI.

SLAMS CHAIR TO FLOOR

M. Daladier said he was on one point picked up a chair and slammed it to the floor as his face glowed with anger. He was counting the story of the Rome capitulation and the Vichy government's refusal to join the Allies.

He said he had learned at Bourdeaux that he had not having been tried or judged. He was sentenced to life imprisonment.

He recalled that the former attorney general, Georges Caspary, had refused to prosecute him at the trial and that he himself slammed the chair to the floor.

M. Daladier said he should say his. His voice frequently rose to a shout.

TELLS OF VOYAGE

M. Daladier told of the voyage of French officials aboard the liner Maritima bound for North Africa.

He denied that they were "highly nervous" during the trip. He said all possible to organize resistance in North Africa. He said he was tried by Judge Nogues, then commander of French Morocco.

French resistance, which was organized in Casablanca, was assembled in Casablanca.

M. Daladier turned to the Allied invasion of French Africa and the glorious days of the Anglo-American signals in North Africa what a long life he would have with him. I would have knelt in front of him.

M. Daladier pounded his chest and his voice rang through the crowded courtroom as he said:

"I waited for this and prayed for this. Instead, he [Pétain] ordered troops to North Africa to resist our allies."

READS ARMS RECORD

M. Daladier read the record figures on the increase of French armaments between June 1936 and May 1940 during which he was premier and minister of war.

Morars 1306 1340
Heavy tank guns 1,260 600
Magnum light guns 500 500
Armored cars 790 6,000
Light tanks 6,200 2,000
Heavy tanks 1,340 340
Modern machine guns 6 865

M. Daladier said he was not "disarmed," M. Daladier said, "was not greater than ours."

This testimony ended with that given earlier by M. Reynaud.

After the armistice July 25, 1940, M. Daladier said there were 4,260 combat aircraft in the free zone of France, of which 1,200 were first-line planes.

He ended his statement at 1:50 and was cross-examined.

The defense asked if he believed the former chief of government, Pierre Laval, exercised any influence on Marshal Pétain. M. Daladier said "no."

"On Nov. 13, 1940, Pétain dismissed Laval but in 1940 he recalled him."

He charged Pétain with attempting to seize power. During the trial in the Concordia trials in February, 1935, M. Reynaud, then premier, had opposed an extension of the regime. Laval, then premier, had opposed an extension of the regime.

Daladier accused Pétain of upping an armistice with Germany at the end of May 1940, when the British army was still in the war.

eral member-elect in order to give Mr. King a chance to run there.

Mr. King may also have another opponent in the by-election. J. L. Macdonald, a recently defeated Conservative Credit candidate in Nipissing said today that the Social Credit party should run a candidate against the prime minister to "show him that the people don't approve of him."

OPPOSITION TO KING SAID UP TO PEOPLE

CARLETON, July 25.—(CP)—Solon Low, Social Credit house leader in parliament, said yesterday he had left the matter of the Social Credit party opposing Prime Minister King in the Glenora by-election in the hands of the Ontario people.

"I have advised them that I would not look with a great favor on the Social Credit party forcing an election there," Mr. Low said. "But if they are determined to go ahead it is in their own hands."

CHARGES ELECTION "TOO HOT AND DRIED"

SUMMERTOWN, Ont., July 25.—(CP)—Richard Macdonald, a Conservative member-elect, said in an interview that he had decided to oppose Prime Minister Mackenzie King in the Glenora federal by-election Aug. 6 because he was "too hot and dried" to fight out of an election that was "too cut and dried."

He said he would run as an Independent Liberal candidate.

"I have an assignment with Mr. King," said Mr. Macdonald, who is holding at Sharbot Lake near Kingston, Ontario, this summer. "I have been convinced that I cannot do certain things and I have never even got an answer from Mr. King as to why."

"I hope to find out during the campaign what the whole thing means clarification."

Mr. Macdonald said "I think the French-Canadian vote in the election. But I am getting into the habit of not saying anything."

CAMPAIGN PLANS

He said he would campaign for a complete federal medical insurance act and for a Wagner act for labor. He said he would begin his campaign almost immediately.

Mr. Macdonald is a graduate of McGill University, is a veteran of the First World War and of service in Japan. He went through the battle of Jutland and was a member of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

He had no political experience, but while in England after the war he once helped to establish the campaign of Winston Churchill, now Prime Minister.

"I am really an old bird," he said. "I can drive a car 80 miles an hour. I can swim in the high Alps, and I am a figure skater."

Japanese People Offered Little Cheerful News

SAN FRANCISCO, July 25.—(AP)—In a day of gloomy broadcasts that ran from admission of atomic air raids to deaths of important leaders, Tokyo gave the Japanese people only one bright item today—a claim that an Allied submarine had been sighted in the China sea.

The Tokyo dispatch said the submarine was sighted about 20 miles from Tokyo, had been "observed" by Japanese aircraft, and was carrying a large number of men and women.

The broadcast, reported by the Associated Press and Japanese authorities were "fully aware" that the Chinese might be the first site of an Allied invasion.

"All the important salient points of the Japanese situation," the Tokyo dispatch said, "may be the result of the enemy's invasion of the Philippines."

The China prefecture lies on the East coast of the East Sea of Japan.

4. The Co-operative Union of Canada had advised that it was earned by co-operators.

WANT EXTENSION

W. B. Scott of Montreal read a letter from the Canadian Chamber of Commerce reiterating an argument, previously printed, that income tax should be applied fairly to all types of business, whether in co-operatives or otherwise.

George Stier, Edmonton, appearing for the United Grain Growers, said his co-operative had not done any tax-exempt business, but that it had not enjoyed tax exemption since it was given other grain growers co-operatives.

The UGG was a democratic organization with official "representative" to the wishes of the thousands of members throughout the prairies.

HAVE SUBSIDIES

The UGG had subsidy competition, but the prairie wheat pools which received income tax exemptions. Tax-free business corporations, which had no competitors paying taxes became bankrupt. The grain buyers' fluctuations, but present tax limitation the amount the UGG could obtain in the current crop losses in poor years.

The Retail Federation said it had members in the prairie provinces and was broadly representative of the whole distributive interest of the country.

Competition was becoming increasingly severe and merchants could not view with "equanimity" the loss of competitors which had been given tax exemptions, income and excess profits taxes.

FINAL PLUNGE AT JAPAN ON SAYS HALSEY

SAN FRANCISCO, July 25.—(AP)—Admiral William F. Halsey, Jr., commander of the U.S. fleet-attack group on Japan, said last night that "the Pacific fleet has opened a new phase of naval warfare."

He said the final plunge into the heart of Japan.

A dramatic broadcast, made from his flagship off Okinawa, was heard here by the American Broadcasting Company shortly after it was announced that carrier planes had returned to attack the Japanese naval base area for the second consecutive day.

drop to 10 bushels.

In further efforts to combat the effects of the drought, the agriculture department has suggested:

1. That the wheat board should continue its present policy of disallowing farmers by paying the cost of the grain to be sold.

2. That the wheat board make it possible for grain companies to receive a premium price to get the grain.

3. That the wheat board make it possible for grain companies to receive a premium price to get the grain.

COMPLICATE PROGRAM

These conditions complicate the livestock production program, Mr. Longman declared. "If they continue, it may be necessary for farmers to liquidate some of their livestock."

Lack of feed grain is not solely the result of drought. It was pointed out that there has been a keen demand for coarse feed grain in the United States.

Storage charges on this grain, as well as freight charges, have been paid by the Dominion government.

The wheat board and the agriculture supplies board have suggested that the provincial government accept responsibility for acquiring feed grain for livestock purposes.

As a result of crop conditions throughout the world and its effect on livestock production, Mr. Longman suggested Dominion government should take action.

He said present livestock production with permanent livestock production.

Factors were pointed out earlier this week by A. M. Wilson, field crops commissioner, that the shortage of feed grain on the farm would be the outcome of the present crop situation.

He said that feed and food shortages will be experienced by many farmers in warm, dry weather.

Confirm Election Of Navy Minister By Sixty Ballots

OTTAWA, July 25.—(CP)—Completion of a judicial record yesterday confirmed the election of Navy Minister Abbot in Montreal as Attorney-General in the federal elections, by a margin of 60 votes out of 101.

The record before Mr. Justice Louis Boucher in the superior court raised the majority of the navy minister from the 55-vote margin given him originally.

The vote following the recount was 13,648 for Mr. Abbot and 13,588 for Gen. Price.

Procedure Nearly Worked Out

World Soon to Learn of Plans For Dealing With War Criminals

"GROUCHO" MARK TAKES A WIFE—Film comedian Julius "Groucho" Marx, 54, beams at his wife, Catherine Marie Groucho, daughter of an Atlanta, Ga., candy executive, after their wedding in Hollywood on July 21. It was the second marriage for both the bride and groom.

By STUART UNDERHILL

(CP)—The complicated task of working out procedure for the trial of German war criminals appears to be nearing completion and the world may soon know how it is proposed to determine and punish the guilty, and at the same time establish their pattern of aggression as a warning to future generations.

The United Nations War Crimes Commission seeks to blueprint the development of an apparatus as well as to administer punishment to those responsible. It has been declared by at least one representative.

The chief American prosecutor, Justice Robert H. Jackson of the United States supreme court, in a recent address at the commission has been deliberating since early June, said court records should provide the information necessary for educating the public in the pattern of organization used by Nazis and Fascists.

It is important that the trial be held and a complete record made of the proceedings," he said. "Not only the world but the world must be constantly on the alert. Their people must be made to recognize the horror of the Nazi and Fascist crimes."

Little has been made public on the subject of trying the Nazi war criminals, for the commission has faced the delicate task of the prosecution and the establishment of the countries and establishing the pattern of organization used by Nazis and Fascists.

From statements made by Justice Jackson, however, it appears the Nazi highways such as Goering, Ribbentrop and Hess will go on trial in the city of Nuremberg, Germany, through their organizations like the Gestapo and the SS.

"Human Torpedo" Plan Foiled by Storm Daring Attempt by Men of Royal Navy To Sink Nazi Battleship Tirpitz Revealed

Centers have released a hitherto untold story of the war—how Royal Navy men attempted to sink the German battleship Tirpitz lying in a Norwegian fjord three years ago. The story is a dramatic tale of heroism and sacrifice.

By ARTHUR OAKSHOTT
LONDON, July 25.—A small Norwegian fishing smack—two submarines—hung under her keel, a British naval officer hidden in a secret bulkhead and four other naval personnel and an army sergeant charged on the job.

SA charged on up the fjord at three knots. But when she was within sight of the Tirpitz a sudden storm swept in and the "charlies" were sunk.

Abandoning their craft, the nine men swam ashore and made their way to the Swedish frontier. Eight of them escaped to safety, but the ninth was killed by a German firing party.

These are the bare highlights of one of the most remarkable and daring "now-it-can-be-told" exploits of the war which took place exactly a year before the 35,000-ton German battleship Tirpitz with "charlies"—two men human torpedoes.

Two of the vessel with her crew of three Norwegians was stopped at German control points, but a minute search failed to reveal her cargo or her British personnel.

These are the bare highlights of one of the most remarkable and daring "now-it-can-be-told" exploits of the war which took place exactly a year before the damaging attack on the Tirpitz by British midget submarines when the battleship was anchored in Alten fjord, north Norway.

The "charlies" were like a sea horse astride which the two men crewed until the torpedoes were on their objective. The crew would then leave the missile to swim ashore.

blow should not sound hollow. Later, however, a terrific storm broke over the darkening fjord.

WHOLE ATTEMPT OFF
Suddenly there was a jerk, the ship shivered and then increased speed. A few minutes later there was another jerk and a still greater turn of speed. The men realized that the towline had parted, the "charlies" had gone to the bottom and the whole attempt was off.

They then opened the sea cocks to sink the smack, plunged into the ice, turbulent waters of the fjord and swam ashore.

One party reached Sweden in three days without incident but the other, making a dash for the frontier in daylight, ran into a German patrol of two men, one carrying a rifle and another a tommygun. Both Germans and one British were killed in the ensuing gridlock.

OTTAWA, July 25.—(CP)—Germans—indirectly perhaps—may be getting some additional meat made possible by the rationing to be reimposed about Sept. 1.

"Why not?" he was asked.

Mr. Gordon said that if peace was to be maintained people must not be allowed to starve, and to suggest that they should be starved would be to suggest that they should be starved.

New Evictions Are Postponed By Govt. Order

keenest anxiety at the prospect of being without homes or shelter of any kind this coming winter.

"The suspension of the right of the owner to repossess his property is not, of course, the solution to the problem of shelter-shorthages," the minister said.

"There will be cases in which the remedy will merely have the effect of shifting the hardship from the tenant to the owner who may be without shelter himself because he has sold or given up possession of the house in which he was living or because of giving the notice to vacate to his tenant and in the expectation of moving into the tenant's house."

The government believes the real solution lay in "making low rental houses available as speedily as possible." Emergency measures were being taken to do this.

PROGRESS SLOW
"Unfortunately progress has been disappointingly slow because of shortages in labor and materials which take time to correct. Nevertheless, the government is sanguine that considerable progress will be made during the remainder of this year and in 1946. Already War-time Housing Limited has been authorized to erect 10,000 low-rental dwellings with local authorities and this should do much to relieve the immediate emergency."

A supplementary statement the prices board said that the new housing order did not affect order No. 51 which permits a special three months' notice to vacate to be given by or on behalf of disarmed members of the armed forces to enable them to occupy dwellings in which they were living at the time of their enlistment.

Neither does the suspension order apply to light housekeeping and other rooms or to boarders or lodgers. And, the statement emphasized, it gives no special provision to the "G.I. who is not one who is obnoxious, fails to pay his rent, damages the accommodation or breaks the convenance of his lease."

SOME DON'T BENEFIT
Tenants holding leases for a fixed term of five months or less don't benefit by the suspension order. This class of tenants apply chiefly to summer cottages and the like or to city dwellers who have rented their homes for the vacation period, the statement said.

Provision is made in the order that owners who have given notices to vacate and feel that the suspension thereof imposes an undue hardship upon them may apply to a court of rental appeals which will be authorized to weigh the relative needs and hardships of the landlord and his tenant and to lift the suspension if the court should decide that the needs and hardships of the landlord outweigh those of the tenant."

TORONTO, July 25.—(CP)—AIDS officials of several large Canadian cities last night expressed approval of an order announced by Finance Minister Islay postponing evictions of "well-behaved" tenants of self-contained dwellings where the landlord requires the dwelling as a residence for himself or his family.

Mayor Allan Butler of war-wounded Halifax said the move was "a relief" and that the rental housing situation could be straightened out if it was "about all the government could do."

Controlled David A. Balfour of Toronto Board of Control, said the order of the city council would be greatly aided as at least everyone "would have a roof over their heads."

In the industrial city of Hamilton, Ont., Controller Nora Frances Henderson said scores of pending evictions would be nullified. She added: "The order only points to the real need which is more housing, and this should not be lost sight of."

The A-24s roared in at less than tree-top level showering parachute fragmentation bombs on Tientsin, Tientsin airfield, hitting dispersal areas and buildings.

BOUGAINVILLE CLIMAX
An Australian army announcement says that the Bougainville campaign is near its climax with a large body of Japanese naval troops sealed off in northern Bougainville.

With these forces neutralized, the main battle probably will come along the Mivir river front in southern Bougainville where Australian troops are facing the desperate defenses of the Japanese.

Since last November the Australians have regained control of 2,000 square miles of territory and freed 10,000 natives and killed 6,000 Japanese.

Conservation Of Seed, Feed Grain Sought

The hot dry weather situation is beginning to create some anxiety on the part of many of the farmers in this province, and if these conditions continue, crop yields will be sharply reduced due to lack of moisture, according to reliable reports.

In some parts of the province new records according to James Macdonald, president of the Alberta Farmers' Union, the wheat crop is finished, and in many cases it will not be harvested.

CONSULT GOVERNMENT

In view of the situation the Alberta Farmers' Union has taken the matter up with the provincial government requesting that action be taken to hold all feed and seed reserves in this province and suggesting that purchases be made from the grain board and that the government be compensated for storing these reserves.

The union has wired the following telegram to the Hon. J. A. Macdonald and Hon. J. A. Gardiner:

"Provision of crop insurance looks hopeless. Due to shipment of seed and feed grain outward and across the border, provincial reserves are reduced to dangerous level. Suggest restriction on shipping of coarse grain from province until new crop, if any, is in."

Please give this matter your immediate attention.

Officials of the union said they hoped that a situation would not develop in the province similar to that prevailing in Saskatchewan in the 1930s when feed and seed reserves were used for other purposes. The union said it was necessary to have reserves in the province and to the farmers at increased prices.

Unasked Summer Callers Branded Worst Moochers

Uninvited Guests Contemptible Grafters; Summer Brings Influx of Seasonal Parasites

DEAR MISS DIX: Will you please write something concerning the influx of seasonal parasites who descend upon everyone who has a country home as soon as the good old summertime arrives? One no longer has the privilege of inviting one's own guests because one's house is packed with the deadbeats who have just "dropped in," with bag and baggage, and children and dogs, and often with their own friends, and who expect to be put up for the night, or a weekend. Of course, we have always had these pests, but they are more violent than ever these days and they are harder to endure when servants have gotten to be just a memory and to get enough food for one's own family is difficult.

MISS L. M. G.

TAKING ADVANTAGE

Answer: If I should say what I really think about the self-invited guests, either the summer or winter variety, it would have to be printed on asbestos. Paper would be soiled under any words, for to my mind, they are the meanest and most contemptible of moochers, because they take advantage of the decency of other people to live their nefarious racket.

But especially venomous are the summer species of these grafters who for they show no mercy to their victims, and no one who has place in the country is safe from them. Every one who owns a cottage by the sea or a cabin in the mountains knows what it is to be bombarded by letters from relatives and friends who tell how they long to see you and your dear family again, and would be so convenient for them to come and bring their children, who need a change of air and spend a couple of weeks with them.

And who hasn't experienced the awful sinking of the heart when an automobile pulls up before the door and you see a crowd of people who joyously announce that they just couldn't pass you by, and they are here to stay. And then you are parched with thirst and will you please give them a few dollars and a drink? And you see the last of your hoarded hunk of meat and bottle of Scotch wine, which you pray that they will choke on.

But why do we stand this? Why don't we lock our doors against these grafters? Why don't we say NO, and stick to it when they invite themselves? Why haven't we the intestinal fortitude to protect ourselves? The only answer is: We are cowardly. We maybe we deserve what we get. But self-invited visitors even in why summer homes are always for sale. Few people can afford to run a home like this.

EASY MARK

DEAR MISS DIX: My trouble is I am an easy mark. People who have no claim upon me whatever are always asking favors of me and, like a sucker, I do them. My friends tell me I am a sucker and they say my trouble and they never offer to do anything for me. A. C.

Answer: You've said it. You are an easy mark and everyone takes advantage of you because they know you will stand for it. We write our prize tag in the world. If we put a low valuation on ourselves, that is all the public will pay for us. This goes even in a family. If Mamie demands the pretty clothes, she gets them. If Sally is so sweet she stays at home to keep Mama from being lonely, she gets the other girls step out. Mama isn't grateful. She takes it as her due, and wonders why Sally isn't as popular as her other daughters.

If you will work for a beginner's salary, that is all you have, but ever offer for you. The askers are the greedy. It isn't a lovely trait in human nature, but we all trample over those who make doormats of themselves.

IN LOVE

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am in love with a boy who is overwise. He used to be in love with me, but I don't know whether he is or not now, as he has quit writing me. Shall I ask him how he feels about me?

Answer: There is no need to do this. His silence is his answer, and it is that he has forgotten you. He saves your face by not telling him how you feel.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDERD
Mothers are eternally fearful their children are not getting enough to eat. They remember the number of spoonfuls of solid foods and the ounces of milk they drink grudgingly and say, "Now, please let me do you think that is enough?"

There is one criterion of a diet's adequacy and that is the baby's own reaction to it. Babies do not take exactly the same number of spoonfuls of food a day, nor the same number of ounces of milk. For one child may make much more economical use of food than another. He eats and he is proportionately as well nourished as a child who eats far more in quantity.

What is necessary is that the baby should be satisfied at the end of a meal and able to wait until the next meal without fussing. He should sleep well and sound asleep or twice during the day and twelve hours at night. He should make an adequate gain in weight.

While the weight chart is no longer held to be sacred and every baby expected to gain in exact accordance with its dictates, it remains true that the baby who is well-fed gains considerably and the one on meager rations does not.

During the first six months the baby who does not gain four or more ounces weekly is in need of a more adequate formula or feeding program. He is not gaining as he can and should.

After six months of age, a four-ounce weekly gain, or a pound gain monthly, is very good. After one year of age one cannot expect that a baby will gain over a half-pound monthly, if that.

It is for the mother to determine, by the baby's apparent satisfaction, his looks, his behavior, and his monthly, if not weekly gains, whether he is getting all the food or the type of food best suited to him.

What I am trying to convey is that it is not the number of spoonfuls or ounces of milk that are important but whether the baby gurgles happily at the end of a meal and wakes refreshed and good-natured. If so, his nutrition is probably adequate. However, it may differ in amounts from that given to some other baby.

Our leaflet, "Formula and Early Feeding," will help the mother of the baby from birth to nine months. It may be had by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope, with this request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper.

HOW TO KEEP COOL! HERE ARE FEW HINTS TO OFFSET ANNUAL BUGBEAR

Icepicks are not very practical in keeping cool, but the two following ideas are really sound, experts say.

The coiffure is very important. The upweave is the best there is for coolness, the long hair prevents cooling circulation on the back of the neck.

Salt is essential. Beverley Morton has the right idea. A little salt in the drinking water replaces the amount of the essential mineral lost by the body due to perspiration.

IN TUNE—Hollywood gossip insists that Dick Powell, ex-crooner now turned movie sleuth, and blonde singer June Allyson plan to wed after his divorce from Actress Jean Simons. Dick and June are pictured above at a recent Hollywood party.

CHARGES GRAFT—The U.S. Senate War Investigating Committee has asked the War Department to explain charges by Sen. Edward V. Robertson, above, Republican of Wyoming, of "fantastic graft and corruption" in the construction of the Latin-American Highway.

NEW QUEEN OF THE SKYWAYS NEARS COMPLETION—The first picture of the hull of a new queen of the skies, expected to be completed in January, is shown above. She is the Hughes Hercules, an all-wood cargo seaplane which, builders say, will carry 750 fully-equipped soldiers non-stop from Honolulu to Tokyo. Essential facts: hull 220 feet long, 30 feet high, 25 feet wide; wingspread 320 feet; gross weight, more than 200 tons; powered with eight 3,000-horsepower engines; take-off distance more than a mile.

ONE DAY'S WAR COST WOULD PAY FOR THE ST. LAWRENCE SEAWAY—The Canada-U.S. development promises both power and navigation.

Toronto Plumber Who Closed Shop To Go To War Able To Re-Open Pre-War Business Through Assistance of Rehabilitation System

Issued by: Rehabilitation Information Committee (WIB)

Through Canada's rehabilitation system, James Griffiths of Toronto has been rescued from a quandary which many discharged service men are bound to meet. Before the war, Jim was a successful, established plumber. He closed his shop in 1940 to join the army, spent four and a half years overseas, returned to Canada and was discharged. Substantial gratuity and re-establishment grants enabled him to re-open his shop, but until it began to function, he supported his family on a temporary allowance provided in such cases. At far left, Jim is seen in his army uniform. Next, he talks with rehab. officer Roney, Toronto. Then he is shown working in a customer's bathroom and, at right, he is shown at the "lead" stove in his shop in Toronto. Griffiths served with the R.C.M.C.
